CLEVELAND, May 24.—State Senator Lewis Emory, of Bradford, Pa., was the principal witness today at the hearing of the Interstate Commerce Commission on Standard Oil methods. He was asked concerning the conditions in Pennsylvania when the oil pipe lines were constructed in that State.

"The first pipe lines in Pennsylvania were not invented by the Standard Oil Company," said the witness at one point in his testimony. "The Standard never invented anything. It had always existed, what was called the 'devil fish'."

The further testimony of the witness was plainly devoted to relating the history of the Standard Oil Company, the United States Pipe Line Co. in building pipe lines across Pennsylvania from Oil City to the seaboard in competition with the Standard Oil Company.

In giving his testimony the Senator was quite eloquent and his words resounded through the chamber like the delivery of an impassioned address.

He was allowed to proceed without interruption, and he related the many struggles of a ten years' fight to get the two pipe lines, one by the way of Philadelphia and the other through West Virginia. In one contest, he said, the company lost between $750,000 and $800,000 expended in the establishment of many miles of pipes.

TERRAJOVA GIRL CAN'T TELL RIGHT FROM WRONG GIVEN AS GIFTS

PHILADELPHIA, May 24.—When the Interstate Commerce Commission resumed its hearings today in the investigation of alleged discrimination of coal cars Frederick Vrooman, of Osceola, Miss., assistant trainmaster on the Tyrone division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, was called.

"Have you anything to do with the distribution of cars?" asked Mr. Glasgow.

"I have."

"Did you ever get any money from coal operators on your division?"

"Yes, sir."

At Mr. Glasgow's request Mr. Vrooman handed a half dozen coal operators who had paid him money at various times in amounts running from $5 to $25.

"Why did they give you this money?" questioned Mr. Glasgow.

"I suppose they expected some favors."

"Were the favors granted?"

"Yes, that I received."

"Then why did you take the money?"

"Well, if there was money to be given out I was there to take it."

"Is that your position now?"

"It always has been."

The witness said there was no scarcity of cars during the anthracite strike. He denied furnishing cars to certain companies at $20 and $30 a car.

POLICE IN RAID BREAK DOORS WITH CROWBARS

An alleged poolroom on the third floor of No. 8 East Seventh street, just off Fifth avenue, and patronized by a "silk stocking crowd of sports" as the police afterward declared, was raided this afternoon by Capt. Hodgins, of the Twentieth station, with a bunch of detectives.

About 150 men were in the place. Many tried to jump from windows before they were quieted. The only persons arrested were Thomas Lane, thirty-four years old, of No. 20 Varney street, the alleged keeper, and Henry Reid, of No. 22 Second avenue, and Joseph Davis, of No. 22 Second avenue, alleged to be sheet writers.

Capt. Hodgins has received several complaints about the place and yesterday got John Lee warrants from Magistrate Reed. When he turned up with them this afternoon he found the place locked. With axes and crowbars they broke down the two stabled, oak-faced doors and got into a large room, furnished with leather-upholstered seats in the fashionable mission style of furniture.

There were some excellent engravings on the walls, and altogether it looked like the home of a well-to-do family. The men, much better in appearance than the usual grist of pool-room raids, were fully armed. They were allowed to go without being disturbed, and the police took two telephones and some dope sheets as evidence.

30 MEN BURIED IN COLLAPSE OF HOUSE

PITTSBURGH, May 24.—Morgan S. Simms's lively stable at No. 123 Baum street, East End, which was being remodeled into an automobile garage, collapsed this afternoon, and thirty workmen caught in the crash were badly injured. All but ten had been taken out up to a late hour. It is not thought that any of those still in the ruins were killed.

Mr. Simms himself was caught in the falling timbers and was the first taken out. His injuries are serious.

The stable was a two-story wooden structure, and it was the heavy iron girders which were being put up for the roof that gave way and caused the entire building to sink into the cellar.

Later one man, an Italian laborer, was taken out dead. His head was crushed by a falling beam. A Chinese boy had been rescued before the collapse.

would have been apt to produce such a physical and mental condition as I found in this case."

No Sign of Pain.

Q. What physical examination did you make? A. I ascertained by tests that the entire right side was affected with anaesthesia. I applied a lighted match to the right side of the face and squeezed the right breast very forcibly. At the time she was blindfolded. Both tests would have been intensely painful to a person in normal condition, but the prisoner gave no sign of suffering of any sort.

Judge Palmerli submitted to Dr. Hammond the long hypothetical question which he put yesterday to two other alienists. Dr. Hammond made the same reply which the first expert witness had made. In his opinion the girl, on Feb. 22, when she killed the Rixtons, was insane, and could not distinguish between right and wrong.

He said she was undoubtedly insane at that time, at the time he examined her in the Tombs and at the present time.

On cross-examination, Assistant District Attorney Ely asked this question: "Hallucinations and delusions being excluded, were not the other conditions which you observed in her possible in a sane person?"

"They were," replied Dr. Hammond, "but I do not believe she was suffering from hallucinations."

"On defense rests," said Judge Palmerli, as Dr. Hammond left the stand.

The defense had made out a well rounded, complete case. There were no flaws in it that the layman's eye could discover. Judge Palmerli offered strong evidence to back up the tangible things stated by the defense to the facts and the grade of expert testimony to support his theory of adolescent insanity.

To Jury About Monday.

Mr. Ely said he had fourteen witnesses to call in rebuttal. His alienists, he thought, would not go on the stand until to-morrow, and the summing-up speeches not be made until Monday.

He opened his evidence in rebuttal by calling to the stand Deputy Assistant Attorney General Charles Corcoran, who examined the girl at the Bronx detective bureau after her arrest and again at the Corcoran office. He said Corcoran would tell her she had killed her uncle and aunt because she was a bad girl and that she had killed her uncle and aunt because she was a bad girl.

"She said 'no,'" continued the witness, "and she said 'no' to the questions which of them she stabbed first. She said her heart told her to kill them. She said nothing at any time about having killed them."

"Did you see anything in the eyes of Giuseppe Terranova, husband of the prisoner, Terranova, he said, told him that she had killed them because she was a bad girl and that she had killed her uncle and aunt because she was a bad girl."

"Did you see anything in the eyes of Giuseppe Terranova, husband of the prisoner, Terranova, he said, told him that she had killed them because she was a bad girl and that she had killed her uncle and aunt because she was a bad girl."

SOUGHT DEATH WHEN HER FIANCE CHOSE ANOTHER

After telegraphing her sweetheart that she would be dead when he received the message Miss Carrie Deck, of No. 429 Kosciuszko street, Brooklyn, tried to end her life by jumping into the East River from the ferryboat Kentucky, on the Twenty-third street line.

As the vessel neared midstream the girl, leaning against the rail on the rear of the boat, began to cry. This attracted the attention of Miss Marion Wilson, of No. 34 West Sixty-fifth street, and Miss Anna Brush, of No. 92 Tinton avenue, who were standing near, and when suddenly the girl started to climb over the rail the two seized her.

To Magistrate Voorhes, in the Manhattan court, she admitted she had attempted to end her life because her sweetheart was going to marry another girl.

Miss Deck is attractive looking and only eighteen years old. For the past year she has made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Peter Peterson, of No. 429 Kosciuszko street, Brooklyn.

"She is a good, bright girl," said Mrs. Peterson today to an Evening World reporter. "Her father died two years ago. She is very much in love with Mack Freidel, of No. 511-1/2 Third avenue. The last time we saw her she seemed to be cheerful as usual. She left home Tuesday."

"Yesterday Mr. Freidel rushed in with a telegram from Carrie, saying: 'When you get this Carrie is dead. You might have known it when I asked for the last kiss.'"
